Halloween Pet Tips:

Important Tips to Keep You and Your Pets Safe

Halloween is almost here. The Anti-Cruelty Society offers the following tips to keep your pets healthy and safe while you enjoy this fun-filled holiday.

When the trick or treaters start calling, or your party guests start arriving, make sure your pets are secured in a room where they will be comfortable and safe from slipping out the door or possibly biting or scratching someone. Pets are often stressed by many strangers at their home and will be much happier in their own safe space.

Candy is not appropriate for pets. Give your pets treats that are made especially for them.

Chocolate is not appropriate for pets in any amount and can be potentially poisonous to many animals. Unsweetened baking chocolate contains almost seven times more theobromine (the chemical in chocolate that is hazardous to animals) as milk chocolate.

Candies and some gum contain artificial sweeteners that can be toxic to pets. If ingested, wrappers from candy and gum can cause vomiting or create intestinal blockage.

Pumpkins and other gourds are relatively non-toxic, they could cause gastrointestinal upset or intestinal blockage if large pieces are ingested.

Wires and plugs from electrical lights also pose a threat to your pet. Electrical shock from chewing on cords or injury from plastic or glass bulbs is possible. Make sure they are kept out of your pet's reach.

Glues and other materials used to make decorations and costumes can be toxic to pets. Keep all materials out of your pet's reach.

If your pet is exposed to or ingests any of these or other toxic substance, immediately contact your local veterinarian or the Animal Poison Hotline at 888-232-8870.

LIVING WITH WILDLIFE - COYOTES

Recently, the Village has received several complaints of coyotes. The following information is provided by the Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) and University of Illinois Extension in order to provide residents of Illinois with information about how to coexist with Illinois' wildlife, especially in urban areas. For additional information, please visit the IDNR and U of I Extension website at:

http://web.extension.illinois.edu/wildlife/directory\_show.cfm?species=coyote

- Report sick or injured animals, including coyotes to the police department as soon as possible. In an emergency, dial 9-1-1.

- Do not feed coyotes.

- Property owners should limit the availability of unintentional food sources such as bird food, pet food, ripe fruit, and trash.

- Comply with local ordinances that require oversight/restraint of pets. Do not leave small pets unattended when they are outside. Consider the use of fencing or kennel runs to protect small pets.

- Recognize that coyotes are a permanent fixture in Illinois' rural, suburban and urban areas. Seeing a coyote(s) cross a field, backyard, golf course, road, etc. does not necessarily constitute a problem or a dangerous situation for humans or domestic animals.

- Recognize that coyote population reduction (removing some or all of the coyotes in an area) is usually unrealistic and always temporary. Removal of coyotes also requires time, effort and funding.

- If removal of a coyote is deemed necessary, hire a person with coyote removal experience who is licensed by the IDNR. Coyote removals approved by the IDNR usually involve the use of cage (live) traps or padded foot-hold traps.

- Safety procedures for dealing with coyotes are different than those for dealing with a strange dog. If a coyote approaches you, do not run. Yell, stand up straight and wave your arms (the goal is to make yourself appear larger), or throw something at the coyote to scare it away.

Persons with general questions may contact the Lincolnwood Police Department at 847-673-2167.

NILES NORTH THEATRE PRESENTS COMEDY FARCE "NOISES OFF"

In the theater, the term "noises off" refers to sounds that are meant to originate offstage. This is used to great comedic effect in the Niles North production of Michael Frayn's "Noises Off," in which the off-stage chaos at the theater affects the on-stage performance in the fictional play-within-a-play "Nothing On." Performances for "Noises Off" are at 7 p.m. on Friday, October 21 and Saturday, October 22 in the Niles North Auditorium, 9800 Lawler, Skokie. A free community performance will be held at 10 a.m. on Thursday, October 20. There is no 7 p.m. performance on October 20. For tickets, call the Box Office at (847) 626-2122.

Each of the three acts of "Noises Off" contains a performance of the first act of the awful adult comedy "Nothing On." The audience will view how the tension and relationships between the actors will have an effect on their performances onstage, and the contrast between the actors' personalities and the characters they inhabit is also a source of hilarity.

"A Theater Review"

"Follies"

Chicago Shakespeare Theatre

800 East Grand Avenue on the Lake, Chicago

Reviewed by Richard A. Eisenhardt

"Outside of the Candlelight Dinner Theatre there has been no theatre to obtain the rights to stage a production of "Follies" with the current production that the Chicago Shakespeare Theatre is currently doing.

It is a powerhouse show with the amazing direction of Gary Griffen and an unbelievable cast of forty actors who are unbelievable. This production has been extended by one week but it could run much longer. Audiences who love the theatre should make this a must-see production.

The acting and singing is all Broadway performers or rather they should be on Broadway.

Brent Barrett as Benjamin Stone, Rachel Cantor as Young Phyllis, Caroline O'Connor as Phyllis Rogers Stone and the outstanding Robert Petkoff as Buddy Plummer who now resides in New York, make up the out-of-town performers. The rest of the cast for the most part all reside here.

Chicago offers such veterans as Dennis Kelly as Whitman, Mike Nussbaum as Dimitri Weismann, Ami Silvestre as Emily Whitman, Linda Stephens as Heidi Schiller, Kathy Taylor as Solange LaFitte and Marilyn Bogetich as Hattie Walker.

The younger standouts are Adrian Aguilar as young Ben, Andrew Keltz as young Buddy, Susan Moniz as Sally Durant Plummer, Hollis Resnik as Carlotta Campion and Nancy Voights as Stella Deems.

"Follies" has a book by James Goldman and the music and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim make for the two hours and forty minutes fly by. The choreography by Alex Sanchez is terrific.

Some of the twenty songs are "Beautiful Girls," "Don't Look at Me," "The Right Girl," "Rain on the Roof," and "You're Gonna Love Tomorrow." There are twelve in the orchestra.

The show offers three terrific actresses singing three of Sondheim's major songs for the production and all deserve a standing ovation. Marilyn Bogetich's belting of "Broadway Baby," is terrific as is Hollis Resnik as Carlotta's solo number "I'm Still Here," and the petite Susan Moniz as Sally with her solo number "Losing My Mind."

The story takes place in 1971. The Ziegfeld Follies are no longer around and in 1971 the Weismann Follies have faded after thirty years. The theatre is now being torn down for a parking lot. We then find that Weismann has invited the surviving performers from the past back for a festive farewell.

As they arrive their stories unfold as the tale goes back and forth from surviving to their relationships in the old days.

"Follies" runs through November 6th. For performance days, show times and reservations call 312-595-5600. Tickets are $55 - $75.

Demystifying Creepy Creatures

Slimy snakes, spooky spiders, and blood-sucking bats. Halloween's creepy creatures get a bad rap. It's time to demystify these amazing animals and un-cloak the beauty of these beasts.

Snakes

Of the 3,000 species of snakes, only some 350 are venomous.

Most snakes can climb trees.

Snakes help control rodent populations.

Snakes rarely strike human beings unless they are provoked.

Snakes are an important icon in American history – one of our first flags, the Continental Navy flag, featured a rattlesnake with the motto, "Don't Tread on Me."

Spiders

Spiders digest their food outside of their bodies. After they capture prey, spiders release enzymes that cover their meal. The enzymes break down the body of the prey into a liquid that the spiders suck.

The daddy-long-legs in your basement isn't a true spider. It's a harvestman with only one body part (thorax and abdomen are fused into one) and two eyes instead of a spider's eight!

A strand from the web of a golden spider is as strong as steel.

Spiders can get caught in their own webs, but they are nimble and usually do not.

Bats

Bats in our region easily eat as many as 3,000 mosquitos per night, minimizing our need for pesticides.

Bats are not rodents. They belong to the order Chiroptera (hand-wing).

Bats are nature's only true flying mammal.

Bat mothers give birth to a single pup every year. Because of this slow reproduction (the slowest on Earth relative to size), they are vulnerable to extinction.

Vampire bats are known to adopt orphaned bats and often risk their own lives to share food with other bats.

FRANKEN PLAZA COMES ALIVE WITH FREE ENTERTAINMENT DALEY PLAZA HALLOWEEN FUN, OCTOBER 28-30, 2011

Witches, vampires, princesses and cartoon characters are just some of the visitors you'll see invade Daley Plaza as costumed children celebrate Halloween for three full days of free fun during Franken Plaza, presented by safety sponsor, UL, from October 28-30, 2011.

Franken Plaza offers plenty of free entertainment, trick or treat candy, arts & crafts, storytelling and more, including a kids costume contest with special prizes.

For more than a decade Chicago's Midnight Circus has been entertaining crowds at Daley Plaza for Halloween. # CHICAGO TEENS AND TWEENS FINALLY GET THEIR CANNES

For the first time the Chicago International Children's Film Festival is offering evening movie screenings ideal for teens and tweens ages 11-16+. The Festival's 14 different evening programs, all screened at Facets (1517 W. Fullerton, Chicago), include 5 feature length films and 9 shorts programs of both live action and animation.

"Teens and tweens are coming into their own as movie fans and critics," says Festival Programming Director Ann Vikstrom. "We felt it would be special to provide their own evening times to explore what's new in world cinema for their age group."

"When it comes to imagination and quality storytelling, American tween audiences are largely underserved and forgotten," adds Vikstrom. "The Festival offers a window to a world of different cultures and is a departure from the marketing-driven media they are traditionally exposed to."

Highlights of this year's evening line-up include the Dutch film My Grandpa the Bank Robber, a whimsical, poignant coming-of-age journey about a multicultural young girl in search for her long lost Father with the help of her wacky Grandpa. It's recommended for ages 14+. In Germany's Devil's Kickers, the new kid assembles a scrappy rag tag group of outcasts to topple the local soccer giants. This soccer spin on The Bad News Bears is recommended for ages 11+. Last but not least, Single by Contract, the rom-com romp from Disney Germany, is A Hard Day's Night for the new millennium. It includes a hit soundtrack and is recommended for ages 12+.

Some programs are also scheduled for daytime and weekend screenings. Check the Festival schedule at www.facets.org/kids for details or call 773-281-9075 ext. 3011. Admission is $9.00 for adults and $6.00 for children.

Over two hundred of the very best films for kids from 42 countries will be shown in the ten-day Chicago International Children's Film Festival from Friday, October 21 to Sunday, October 30, 2011, at Facets Multi-Media (1517 W. Fullerton Ave., Chicago) and seven other Chicago-area locations. The 237 films in the program were selected from over 1,000 submissions. The Chicago International Children's Film Festival celebrates its 28th year in 2011 as the oldest and largest festival of films for children in North America.

The Chicago International Children's Film Festival is a Program of Facets Multi-Media and is presented, in part, with the support of American Airlines, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Illinois Arts Council, the Alphawood Foundation, The Polk Bros. Foundation, the MacArthur Foundation, Kirkland & Ellis Foundation, The Academy Foundation and individual contributions.

Joint Tenancy: A Bitter Inheritance

Chester M. Przybylo

When the kids were small, your blustering threat that you'd "pull the car over right now" was enough to quell many sibling disputes, at least those likely to arise on the road in the old Ford Country Squire. Improper estate planning can bring back those memories – by rekindling childish jealousies among your adult offspring.

But this time you won't be around to intervene. Instead, the courts will be called upon to manage the explosion of harsh words, scorn and slights that will be remembered for a lifetime.

A case in point is the recent Zink v. Stafford ruling from Virginia. A son and daughter fell into destructive litigation over the property of their father, a real estate developer. His "estate plan" consisted of simply adding his daughter's name to mortgages and bank accounts. This was a joint tenancy with the right of survivorship held by the daughter.

Joint tenancy arrangements are an all-too common estate planning shortcut. Elderly parents often need help managing their financial affairs, and believe that adding a child's name to property allows for co-management of assets while facilitating a crisis-free inheritance. But this simple estate-plan-in-a-box often becomes a Pandora's box, complete with tempting opportunities for the child's creditors or divorcing spouse to cut a slice from the family pie.

In the Zink case, when the father died, the daughter assumed she could claim all joint property as her own. The brother had a different view. He argued that the joint tenancy arrangement had been merely for management convenience, and that a wholesale ownership transfer to the daughter was never intended.

The daughter conceded she had never been authorized to withdraw funds without the father's approval, and the court ruled for the brother. For a true joint tenancy to exist, the court said, the daughter would have had to obtain an ownership interest through a purchase or as a gift.

The real tragedy of the case was that this serious family rift and the legal fees could have been avoided. The ideal solution would have been the creation of a living trust, with the daughter identified as co-trustee authorized to act for the father in financial matters.

Failing that, the father could have eliminated the joint tenancy arrangement and granted a power of attorney to the daughter. In the end, what once seemed like a common-sense way to preserve family wealth instead became a bitter recipe for family conflict and estrangement.

Village Cooking Corner

Here's a new idea for those pumpkins after they have served their purpose for Halloween decorations:

PICKLED PUMPKINS

Ingredients for 10 servings:

- 4.4 lbs. pumpkin, cleaned, peeled and cubed
- 5 cups white vinegar
- 5 cups water
- 1 to 2 cups wine vinegar
- 2.2 lbs. sugar
- 1 lemon
- 1 stick ginger

Place the cubed pumpkins in an ironstone or earthenware dish or crock. Combine white vinegar and water and pour over pumpkin cubes; marinate till the next day. Turn pumpkin cubes out in a colander to drain. In a saucepan, combine wine vinegar, sugar, ginger, the grated rind and the juice from the lemon and bring these ingredients to a boil. Add the drained pumpkin cubes and cook over low heat till they begin to look glassy. Lift pumpkin cubes out of liquid with a slotted spoon and transfer them to an earthenware dish or crock. Continue to cook liquid till it thickens; then remove from heat and pour over the pumpkin cubes. Let cool. Cover with cellophane and tie it securely over dish. Refrigerate. This makes a delicious condiment or dessert.

NO NEED TO HANG UP THE CAPE

By Andrew Salata, Social Security Public Affairs

Some of the strongest and most youthful superheroes to jump from the pages of comic books to the silver screen in recent years are old enough to be receiving full Social Security retirement benefits. Whether standing before the bat-computer or going online at the fortress of solitude, these guys were certainly wise enough to apply for retirement benefits at www.socialsecurity.gov.

Superman may be America's most popular superhero, and also the oldest to hit the screen in recent years. The man of steel was created in 1932. The guy's 79 years old and he has a new movie coming out in 2012. Superman does mostly volunteer work, but even if he earns wages as Clark Kent, his benefits won't be offset since he reached his full retirement age.

Batman made his debut in 1939, and he's about to star in another feature film, running around like a 30-year-old. Also in his 70s, Mr. Wayne is getting full retirement benefits — and Robin too. The same can't be said for the Joker or Penguin; you can't collect benefits while you're in prison.

The Green Lantern and Captain America made their silver screen debuts this year. They were "born" in 1940 and 1941, and also are of retirement age. One would expect Captain America to look a little more like Uncle Sam these days, but as is true with many Social Security retirees today, staying active keeps him young.

For the "silver age" of comic book heroes, retirement isn't quite here yet. Spider-Man slung his first web in 1962, the same year the incredible Hulk burst into being. Iron Man and the X-Men first appeared in 1963. They may not be ready to retire just yet, but it's a good time for them to take a look at the online Retirement Estimator, where they can get an instant, personalized estimate of future retirement benefits. Come to think of it, if the Hulk or any of the X-Men ever get severely injured, they may qualify for disability benefits through Social Security. The place to go for more information is www.socialsecurity.gov.

Ask any of these superheroes about retirement plans, and you're likely to get an earful. They won't be sitting around — they'll be staying active even as they collect retirement benefits. You don't have to have a bat-computer or be a superhero to harness the power of the Retirement Estimator at www.socialsecurity.gov/estimator, or to apply online for benefits at www.socialsecurity.gov. Up, up, and away into an active retirement!
