WE WILL NEVER FORGET September 11, 2001

America is the land of freedom and liberty. NEVER FORGET, liberty comes at a huge cost at times. NEVER FORGET the victims of September 11th, 2001 in New York, Pennsylvania and the Pentagon whose lost lives left a void in our hearts forever, but will be a perpetual reminder of the values we cherish as a Nation. NEVER FORGET them and the sacrifice of all those who have gone before them, after them, and those who continue to defend our liberty and freedom everyday.

Patriot Day - September 11

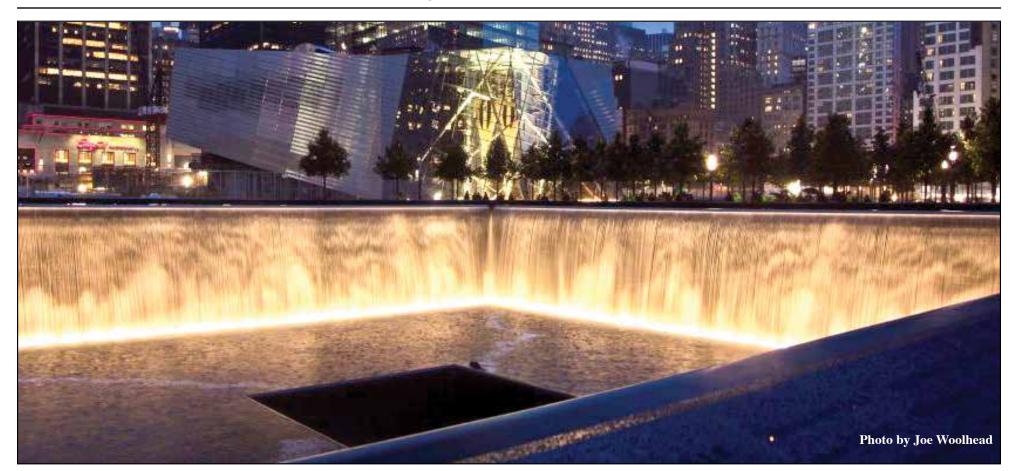

In the United States, Patriot Day occurs on September 11 of each year, designated in memory of the 2,977 killed in the September 11, 2001 attacks. Initially, the day was called the Prayer and Remembrance for the Victims of the Terrorist Attacks on September 11, 2001.

On this day, the President directs that the American flag be flown at halfstaff at individual American homes, at the White House, and on all U.S. government buildings and establishments, home and abroad. The President also asks Americans to observe a moment of silence beginning at 8:46 A.M. (Eastern Daylight Time), the time the first plane struck the North Tower of the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001.

Prayer For An End To Crime And Violence

Although we are a peace-loving nation, Lord, crime and violence affect the lives of many of our people.

Help us to develop a genuine love, concern and respect for ourselves and for all people. May our desire for freedom, greater resources or material possessions never be an excuse for unjust aggression or an infringement on the freedom.

dignity and rights of another.

Guide us, Lord, as we strive to follow your example towards lawful and nonviolent solutions to the problems we face as individuals and as a nation. Amen.

Connections for the Homeless

Connections' mission is simple: ending homelessness. The most efficient way to do that is also simple: we prevent it from happening in the first place.

In the past 12 months, we prevented 224 families from becoming homeless (a 95% increase over the previous year).

In our new fiscal year starting July 1, our goal is to prevent 365 families from ever experiencing homelessness. But to ensure that more of our neighbors will remain in their homes, we need to raise an additional $100,000! We are 80% of the way to reaching that goal.

Partner with us to achieve this goal by making a gift of $365 by June 30. That's one dollar for each family we will help avoid the life-long trauma and consequences that accompany evictions and perpetuate homelessness.

Whether you join us with a one-time gift or a recurring monthly donation, your support will help us not just end homelessness, but prevent it altogether.

Mayor Lightfoot Responds To Release Of Feasibility Study On Chicago Casino And Announces Results Of Community Survey

Mayor Lori E. Lightfoot recently responded to the independent report commissioned by the Illinois Gaming Board that examined the economic feasibility of a casino in Chicago. This report found that the "gaming expansion legislation that allows for a casino in the City of Chicago is very onerous from a tax and fee perspective" and it is likely not financeable under the proposed structure.

"We have been clear from day one that the creation of a new casino for Chicago has to be financially viable and address the revenue needs of the City of Chicago," said Mayor Lightfoot. "While the study confirms our concerns about the tax structure that the legislature passed, we know that this can be addressed, and we look forward to working with the governor and legislative leaders to revise the legislation and ensure a new casino will be beneficial for Chicago's communities and the entire state."

The feasibility study, required by state statute, marked the first step in the City's process for moving forward with a casino by seeking to evaluate the economic feasibility of the project. A separate process will inform the site selection for a casino and will be met with a robust community engagement process.

With more work to be done to inform planning, and ensure Chicago harnesses the full revenue generating benefits for a casino and its impact on communities, the City will provide ongoing opportunities for the public to give feedback during community meetings beginning later this year. During public meetings, residents will have the opportunity to share their feedback on issues that will inform the location, development and operation of a casino, and to learn more about how a casino will inform future financial solutions for the city.

A new casino is envisioned for Chicago as a result of recently enacted legislation and is made possible as a result of Mayor Lightfoot's efforts working with state leadership to secure the requisite approvals. Under the state law, new revenues from a Chicago casino will be used to fund Chicago's police and fire pensions. It is estimated that a Chicago casino will create thousands of jobs as well as contracting opportunities for the community.

Mayor Lightfoot And Chicago Park District Announce Record Season With Over 90,000 Participants This Summer

Mayor Lori E. Lightfoot and the Chicago Park District announced a new record set for youth participation in summer parks programming with over 90,000 participants enrolled across the City of Chicago. This includes 55,000 kids participating in the camps and marks the third consecutive year the Park District set a new summer day camp registration record.

"This summer, the City of Chicago joined together for an all-hands-on-deck partner-ship to give every young person a safe, rewarding and memorable summer season filled with opportunities to learn and thrive while school is out," said Mayor Lori E. Lightfoot. "Thanks to another record-setting year of Park District programming, youth and families across Chicago's 77 neighborhoods participated in an unprecedented number of sports leagues, movies in the park, and other community-centric cultural opportunities that allowed our kids to have fun and be safe as they prepare for another school year."

Highlights to this year's programming included a 33 percent expansion of activities at parks across the city, with new programming including teen sports leagues, BMX and Skating clinics, boxing training and showcases, Girls Day of Play, gymnastics and more. In all, more than 286 parks citywide offered some form of summer programming ranging from summer camps to cultural activities for participants of all ages, including theater, concerts, and movies in the parks.

This summer, the Chicago Park District expanded its Rollin' Recreation mobile activity program to 54 parks, four days a week, for six weeks. The program features the "Rollin Rec

Van," which offers families free activities at parks throughout the city, with no registration

By September 1, the Night Out in the Parks program will have hosted more than 250 movie screenings at 160 parks across Chicago. The Park District's award-winning Night Out program brings cultural events to parks throughout the city all year long, so Chicagoans and visitors alike can enjoy world-class activities in every one of Chicago's 77 neighborhoods. By the end of the year, the program will host and produce more than 2,000 events at Chicago parks – including dance (106 events), festivals (66), movies (251), music (292) and theater (287).

This record season for participation in parks programming follows a call by Mayor Lightfoot to increase programming for youth in every community during the months of June through August when school is out. Earlier this summer, Mayor Lightfoot directed the city's departments and agencies – including Chicago Park District, Chicago Police Department, Chicago Public Library, Chicago Public Schools, City Colleges of Chicago and the Department of Family and Support Services – to collaborate on programming to keep youth safe, healthy and engaged during summer break. A comprehensive resource guide, called "YOUR CHI" was released to provide families with a robust menu of information on where to enroll their child in positive programming and events, youth health services, learning opportunities, and free summer meals for students of all ages this summer season.

General Friedrich Wilhelm Von Steuben German-American Hero

General Friedrich Wilhelm Ludolf Gerhard Augustin Von Steuben was born in Magdeburg, Germany on September 17, 1730.

Von Steuben's military career began at an early age, when he entered the Prussian army and served with Distinction in the Seven Year's War. He later became the aid of Frederick the Great of Prussia, who was recognized as the military genius of his time. Von Steuben became expert in the drilling and training of troops. Because of this exceptional ability, Benjamin Franklin and Count St. Germain, French Minister of War persuaded Von Steuben to volunteer his military expertise to the American Revolutionists.

Von Steuben sailed for America and arrived at Portsmouth, NH in 1778 to aid the young nation in its fight for independence. He offered his services to General Washington without rank or pay, arriving at Valley Forge in the late winter of 1777-78. He found the soldiers in deplorable condition, without uniforms, weapons or food. Appointed by Congress to be inspector General of the Army, Von Steuben set about training the unorganized band of ragged soldiers. He infused in them a sense of discipline and converted them into an excellent fighting force, training them to bear arms, march, form columns and to execute maneuvers with precision. He gave confidence to the officers and men, enabling them to continue on to victory at Yorktown.

As "Drill Instructor" of the Continental Army, Von Steuben wrote "Regulations of the Order and Discipline of the Troops of the United States." Although his Manual has been modified, it still remains in the basic guide for the discipline and drill of the Army.

On June 28, 1778, Von Steuben's training was put to test when the American troops encountered the British Army near Monmouth Courthouse in the town of Freehold, Monmouth County, New Jersey. What early threatened to become a disastrous defeat for the Colonial forces was turned into a glorious victory by General Von Steuben. The retreating troops of General Lee were brought to a halt by Von Steuben and reformed under heavy fire. The retreating men knew how to conduct themselves and wheeled into line with the precision of veterans. What seemed to be a certain defeat turned into a patriot victory and a turning point in the war. This battle was followed by victories in Stony Point, Yorktown and other places.

The First Germans in America

While individual Germans had been in America as early as 1608, 1683 is rightfully celebrated as the beginning of group immigration from the German states. The first to arrive as a group were religious dissenters who landed at Philadelphia aboard the Concord in Mid-August 1683. Francis Daniel Pastorius, an agent for a land purchasing company in the city of Frankfurt am Main, organized the original party of settlers. It was a group largely made up of nonconformist sects such as the Mennonites, Amish, Moravians German Quakers, and other Protestant minorities, notably dissidents of the Reformed and Lutheran persuasion.

These settlers were from Krefeld, Frankfurt and the Palatinate. Germantown, the settlement they established near Philadelphia, became a point of entry for later waves of German immigrants to Pennsylvania. By 1689, the settlement had grown so large that it had to be incorporated. Germantown's citizens were pious, peaceful, industrious people, who quickly established southeastern Pennsylvania as a leading agricultural region.

Over the centuries, the community has continued to cling to the language and culture of its native land. Descendants of the first German immigrants are called Pennsylvania Dutch - an Anglicization of the word "deutsche" meaning "German."

The eastern counties of Pennsylvania became the center of German immigration to America during the colonial period, but there were several other important areas of settlement. One of these was New York state, including the Mohawk Valley region around Utica and the area around Schoharie. The latter area was settled by so-called Palatines, Protestant refugees from the Palatinate in southwest-central Germany. The Shenandoah Valley region of Virginia was also an important area of German settlement in colonial times. Other areas were in Georgia and the Carolinas. Salem, NC preserves many historic buildings reminding one of early German settlement there.

When the first American census was taken in 1790, Pennsylvania's German population was put at 225,000 which amounts to a third of the state's entire population. If we further count those Germans who in the course of the 18th century settled in the English colonies of New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia and South Carolina, especially those from the Palatinate, Baden and Wurttemberg, and include their children, then Americans of German origin were about 9% of the total population of the youthful United States around the close of the 18th century.

The term "German-American" refers to immigrants from German-speaking areas and their descendants. In the narrow political sense, the term "German-American" can refer to emigrants from Germany and its given geographical area in a specific historical period.

Taken in the broad ethno-linguistic and cultural sense, German-Americans also include immigrants--and their offspring--from Austria and South Tyrol, Switzerland, Liechtenstein and Luxembourg, Germans from Russia and the Balkan countries, and Jewish-German immigrants. In earlier centuries most of these areas were within the boundaries of "Germany."

Before the "homogenizing" processes of the 20th century, there were many more distinct differences in how people live in the various German-speaking regions. It was often possible to tell where someone came from by observing how he or she was dressed. And there were -- and still are -- numerous regional customs and traditions.

German Bratwurst - An Oktoberfest Favorite

When you think Germanfest and Oktoberfest what food comes to mind right away? A delicious bratwurst of course. There is nothing that identifies with German more than a bratwurst. Bratwurst are what most people envision when it comes to German sausage. Bratwurst are usually grilled and served with sweet German mustard and a hard roll.

German heritage is identified with sausage as the pig was the animal of choice for meat as probably beef is in America

While sausage recipes can be found as early as 228 AD, the first documented evidence of the Bratwurst in Germany dates to 1313 and can be found in the Franconian city of Nuremberg, which is still an internationally renowned center for the production of grilling sausages.

Bratwurst is a type of German sausage that can be made from either veal, beef or from pork. The name bratwurst comes from the Old High German Brätwurst. Brät - which means finely chopped meat, and wurst, which means sausage. In modern German it is often associated with the verb braten, to pan fry or roast.

The difference between sausage and bratwurst is the in the preparation. Sausage is a preparation of ground meat that can be found in dried or fresh varieties and sold either in casing as links or in bulk while Bratwurst is a specific type of fresh link sausage made with pork or veal or a combination of pork and beef.

In late fall or early winter our German ancestors slaughtered animals and made sausage for the long winter months ahead and because when they slaughtered animals they could not waste precious meat scraps. The meat scraps were finely chopped and were turned into sausage.

While most civilizations came up with the idea for a sausage, our forefather's and mother's ingenuity probably came up with the idea of using the intestines to put all the little parts of the pig that were left over including the blood all on their own. Nothing was wasted.

Bratwurst is generally made with pork and veal, but beef can also be used. It's seasoned with a variety of subtle flavors like caraway seeds, coriander, ginger or nutmeg. It is often paired with sauerkraut or potato salad and is usually sautéed, broiled or grilled.

Germans like their sausages, and it's for a good reason. The variety and availability of it when you step onto German soil is astounding. Ranging from classic fried Bratwurst to tangy Currywurst, there is no lack of choice when it comes to sausage in Germany.

According to the food historian Alan Davidson the best sausage makers were in the colder countries like Germany, as opposed to Mediterranean countries where food was more available during the cooler months. The best cured sausages came from the mountainous regions where the dryer northern winds helped in the curing process.

In America our German ancestors have kept the Bratwurst tradition going. It has become a social food in places like Wisconsin, Illinois and other states that had a high number of German immigrants, where they have "Brat fry's" on the weekends like they have BBQ's in the south.

There are several different Brats

Weisswurst

Bavarian white sausages, or Weisswurst, are pale beige-colored links made mainly from veal, with a little pork and pork skin added in. They're milder in flavor, and spiced less than other varieties. Weisswurst is traditionally boiled, rather than grilled or griddled, and served with pretzels and sweet German whole-grain mustard.

Thüringer Bratwurst

The Thüringer Rostbratwurst (or just Thüringer Bratwurst) is a bratwurst from the Thüringen region. It is made from finely ground pork and veal or beef and seasoned with salt, pepper, caraway seeds, marjoram, and garlic. Some butchers also add nutmeg, coriander, and/or lemon zest as additional flavorings. It is a spicy sausage and it is long (6-8 inches) and thin in shape. In Thüringen, the bratwurst gets much of its taste from the way it is cooked. It is grilled over a wood fire on a grill that is greased with bacon fat. However, any grill will do fine.

Nürnberger Bratwurst

These smaller, pinkie-sized sausages originate from the historic German town of Nürnberg. They make a great breakfast sausage and are typically served 6 at a time, grilled, with potatoes, sauerkraut, and horseradish cream.

So next time you visit a Germanfest or an Oktoberfest be sure to try one of these delicious Brats and of course don't forget that nothing goes better with a Bratwurst than a Stein of Beer.

KINDERCHOR

The German American Children's Chorus or The DA Kinderchor was founded in 1935 in hopes of preserving German culture through music and song. 80 years later the Kinderchor still thrives under the direction of Ms. Carol Himmel. The children range in age from 4 to 21. The Kinderchor sings at various engagements throughout the City of Chicago. Each year the Chorus has two annual concerts, the Christmas and the Mother's Day concerts. The Chorus has taken three very successful Concert Tours in Germany. The Kinderchor has also sung at Epcot Center in Orlando, FL and has sung for the German Consulate at The Union League Club of Chicago. The Kinderchor will also participate this year at the annual Von Steuben parade held on Lincoln Ave. on Saturday Sept. 7, 2019. The Kinderchor will also have a food and beer tent this year at the annual Germanfest held in Lincoln Square. The Kinderchor is always looking for new members. The Chorus rehearses every Saturday morning beginning in early October 2019, 9:30 am.

Christkindlmarket History & Tradition

The Christkindlmarket unites cherished German and European tradition with international flair and local charm. Inspired by the 16th century Christkindlesmarkt in Nuremberg, Germany, one of the first outdoor markets of its kind, the Christkindlmarket is well-known for its vendors' high quality gifts and food, holiday cheer, and for being the ideal place for families to make unique memories.

The Christkindlmarket Chicago was first conceptualized in 1995 when The German American Chamber of Commerce of the Midwest Inc. (GACC Midwest) was seeking alternative ways to promote bilateral trade between the USA and Germany. Peter Flatzek, former Vice President of GACC Midwest, and Ray Lotter, then Manager of Commercial Services for GACC Midwest, initiated the partnership with city officials of Nuremberg, Germany. Mr. Lotter invited companies from Germany and the Chicago area to participate in the first Christkindlmarket Chicago in 1996. The market was an instant success and continues to flourish through the work of GACC Midwest's subsidiary, German American Events, LLC.

The inaugural event took place on Pioneer Court in 1996 for the first time. By special invitation of former Mayor Richard M. Daley, the Christkindlmarket Chicago moved to Daley Plaza in 1997 and has become a staple event on the plaza ever since. With the support of the City of Chicago and the Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events (DCASE), the Christkindlmarket Chicago has grown to become one of the most popular winter attractions for locals and tourists alike

OKTOBERFEST IN A POT

Germans can't think of an Oktoberfest without Sauerkraut – the two just go hand-in-hand. Also please note that Germans spell Oktober with a "k" and not a "c," but spelling it either way is OK in the good old USA. (I like to say, "We are German-Americans). What I love about this recipe is that it is a one-pot meal and that it tastes better the next day, as it is the case with all dishes made with Sauerkraut. German grammar also demands that all nouns are spelled with a capital letter.

While I learned to cook Sauerkraut from my Mom, this recipe comes from our good Austrian friend Loretta, who served it to members of the Austrian Mixed Chorus after one of our rehearsals. It was a special treat for us. So here's what you will need: A glass or bag of Sauerkraut, some Spaetzle or a pasta of your choice like Kluski, Macaroni, Rotini or Spaghetti, smoked Bratwurst, Polish Kielbasa or your favorite Wieners, some bacon, a good-size onion and caraway seeds and a couple of bay leaves if you like their taste. If the Sauerkraut is very sour, rinse it with cold water and drain it.

Add the seasonings and bring to a boil; lower heat to a simmer and cook for about half an hour. In the meantime, cut up some bacon into small pieces and fry it. Add the chopped onion and cook and stir ituntil it is slightly browned. If you don't want to use the bacon, use a bit of olive oil instead. Cook the pasta in a separate pot until it is "al dente." Cut up the sausage of your choice into bite-size pieces and add it to the Sauerkraut along with the pasta. Stir it all together and heat it up (it should not be watery), then taste it. It might need some salt, or try a sprinkle of Vegeta, which is an all-purpose vegetable seasoning imported from Croatia which a lot of our people have become fond of using. Go easy with the stuff as you can always add more. For a "gourmet touch" add a nice fruity German wine if liquid is needed and simmer gently. Taste for doneness and flavoring. If you are a bacon lover, you can fry up several strips of bacon, drain them on paper towels and cut them up into small pieces to top off your dish. Serve it with rye, crispy white bread or pretzel rolls. Refrigerate leftovers or freeze a portion of it to enjoy on another day when you're too busy to cook. Loretta suggests that you use equal parts of Sauerkraut and pasta prepared "just the way you like it." Guten Appetit!

Oh, one final thought: You might wonder why they call it Oktoberfest if it's usually held in September. Years ago I was told that because it's usually held outdoors, if they would wait until Oktober, it would be too cold. You might also have seen advertisements for "Oktoberfest in August." Seems like people just cannot get enough of these festivities.

"The Little Shop On The Corner"

Beginning her 42nd year in business, Ingrid Kaltenback continues with her main goal of offering her customers the finest quality and selection of traditional and contemporary fashions and accessories from Germany and Austria for both the ladies and the gentlemen.

This unique setting is a cornerstone of the Lincoln Square neighborhood which had been, for so many years, the hub of German and Austrian culture and heritage. Lincoln Square is still a destination point for dining and shopping, but not the the extent of experiencing the same ethnically based business community.

Ingrid continues to help keep those traditions alive through her unwavering commitment to the German American Immigrants who were a great part of making our City great and have given us such an asset as the new generations carry on those memories and devotion to hard work and steadfastness. Ingrid's contributions to that heritage is well known and she is admired for her dedication to tradition and for being a part of perpetuating the culture of these inspiring base of people.

But, admiration for Ingrid goes beyond her style and work ethic. When most of us, at the age of 17, were relishing in experiences of the day like excitement over our first drivers' license, in our first dates, and planning for our high school proms and future studies, Ingrid was planning her escape from East Germany. That's right!! This was still the time of the existance of a divided Germany after World War II.

She, along with so many at that time, had only one desire - for freedom and for many of those, to be able to participate in and contribute to the American Dream. At age 18, she began her dangerous journey, first to East Berlin. With the help of people who assisted by smuggling folks across the border, Ingrid made her dangerous and courageous trip over the lines to West Berlin. In the Ingrid and her friend Karen remained close as Ingrid found her way to Chicago and to the large German immigrant community in Lincoln Square. In 1969, she joined the sales staff of a shop in the neighborhood, which her future Mother-In-Law, Carina Kaltenbach, owned.

In 1978, the torch was passed to Ingrid and she became the owner and operator of this establishment. Through her regular buying trips to Europe, she has insured that her shop is is still carrying

THE OTHER "OKTOBERFEST"!!

The Cannstatter Wasen Or Stuttgart Beer Festival

The Winter of 1815- 16 in Wuerttemberg was the coldest since records were kept. Harvesting was made impossible. People were starving and the little existing flour was stretched with sawdust to feed the hungry.

When Wilhelm the First became King of Wuerttemberg in 1816, the crisis was at its worst. His brother-in-law, Czar Nikolaus of Russia, helped relieve the biggest misery by delivering grain to the starving people in his relative's region. Then in 1817, when the first harvest wagon was brought in, King Wilhelm and his wife Katharina, had the glorious idea to sponsor a harvest festival. This would take place annually on the King's birthday of September 28th in the area of Cannstatter Wasen, by the river Neckar.

Starting as an agricultural festival lasting up to 5 days, in 1972 this Autumnal Fair, as it is better described, has expanded to a celebration of 16 days and includes carnival games and rides including the tallest Ferris Wheel in the world. Food, beer and wine tents are also an important site at the Volksfest since as many as 3 to 4 million people attend each year. In the center of the Festival grounds stands the symbol of "Thanksgiving", a 25 meter high pillar decked in fruit with a huge basket of more fruit on the top.

This tradition, second in size some believe only to the Oktoberfest in Munich, has not changed and will continue for years to come. Beginning 1 week before the Munich Festival, the 167th Cannstatter Wasen, or as referred to by locals, "Wasen" will take place from September 27th to October 13th in the extensive Wasen are of the Stuttgart City District of Bad Cannstatt.

"Plum Cake" is one of our very favorites from the days that our Grandmothers used to make it. We all devoured it so quickly that she made sure that she baked extra portions each year. We think you will enjoy creating your own Family traditions, as we all do, but for those of us of German and Eastern European heritage, this is an essential. With the Season for the right Plums to use upon us, don't hesitate taking advantage of this tasty cake!!

Zwetschgenkuchen (German Plum Cake)

From the southern region of Swabia, this popular German plum cake features a delicious yeast crust and butter streusel topping.

Prep Time 2 hrs. Cook Time 30 mins. Total Time 2 hrs 30 mins. Servings: 12 servings

Ingredients

- 3 + pounds Italian plums, cut into quarters, pits removed
- 3/4 to 1 cup warm milk, start with 3/4 and add extra to the dough as needed

Author: Kimberly Killebrew

- 1 1/2 tablespoons dry active yeast
- 4 cups all-purpose flour
- 3/4 cup sugar (150 g)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 stick butter (120 g) (1/2 cup melted but not hot)
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon quality pure vanilla extract

- For the Streusel: 1 cup all-purpose
- flour 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 cup butter, at room temperature

Instructions:

Dissolve the yeast into the $3/4\ \text{cup}$ warm milk and let it sit for 5-10 minutes until

Place the flour, sugar and salt in the bowl of a stand mixer and pour in the yeast mixture, melted warm (not hot) butter, eggs and vanilla extract. Give it an initial stir to combine the ingredients and then attach a dough hook and knead it on the bread setting ("2") for 4-5 minutes, adding the remaining 1/4 cup milk as necessary.

(The dough will be sticky but should hold together fairly well. It will not be firm enough to knead into a ball, think of it more as a thick batter.)

Cover it loosely with plastic wrap and set it in a warm, draft free place to rise for an hour or until it has about doubled in size.

Generously butter a German Backblech (baking sheet) extended to full length or a large jelly roll pan (at least 18 inches in length and 1 inch sides but even then the crust will be thicker than with the Backblech).

Use your hands to spread the dough out across the full length of the pan, pressing it up against the sides. (Since it's a yeast dough so it will resist, but just keep pushing it back into position the best you can. Once you put the plums on it, those will help keep it in place). Lay the plums close together in rows over the whole length of the dough on the sheet pan. (If you want your cake a bit sweeter you can sprinkle it lightly with sugar or cinnamon-sugar if you prefer more cinnamon. I emphasize "lightly" because the more sugar you add the more watery the cake will be as the sugar liquefies during baking and your streusel will also "melt" in contact with it.)

Set the pan in a warm place and let it rise for up to another hour.

To make the streusel: Place all the ingredients in a medium-sized bowl and use your fingers to bring it all together. Work with the mixture until it's thoroughly combined and forms a rough sand and clumpy texture. Sprinkle the streusel over the top

Bake the cake on the middle rack of the oven preheated to 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes or until the top is golden.

Let the cake sit for at least 10 minutes before slicing to let some of the liquid set. Slice the cake into squares and serve.

Resurrection faculty member Mr. Mike Longo will examine some of the threats to the democratic process of government in our country and in other democratic countries. Mr. Longo will incorporate observations and thoughts he had after attending author David Brooks' 2019 discussion at the Chicago Humanities Festival about his book, The Second Mountain: The Quest for a Moral Life. Course participants will explore how the democratic process requires that citizens move from the "first mountain" of individualism and fribalism to the "second mountain" of interdependence and community. Additional books that will be utilized for this course include How Democracies Die by Steven Levitsky & Daniel Ziblatt and Bring the War Home: The White Power Movement and Paramilitary America by Kathleen Belew.

The course will meet at Resurrection College Prep High School and will be taught by Resurrection faculty member Mike Longo, who holds a Master's degree in Music and Humanities from DePaul University and a Master's degree in Religious Studies from Loyola University. The fee for the course is $50; to register or for more information, please contact Laura Dennis Idennis@reshs.org or 773.775.6616 Ext 136.

Am≌rica's Best CONTACTS & EYEGLASSES.

"Did you know that 1 in 4 kids has an undetected vision problem? Sometimes vision changes can occur without your kid even noticing and these undetected vision issues can lead to learning problems. Poor vision can also lead to low confidence in school and sports. A child who is unable to see print or view a blackboard can become easily frustrated, leading to poor academic performance. Vision problems, such as a lazy eye, are best treated if they are detected and corrected as early as possible while the child's vision system is still developing. Schedule your kids' eye exams yearly before school starts to make sure your kids are ready to take on their year. We are happy to see the entire family from ages 4 and up!' Mayor Announces 22nd Annual Chicago Football Classic

Today Mayor Lori E. Lightfoot joined representatives from the Chicago Football Classic Scholarship Fund, Inc., Chicago Public Schools, Howard University and Hampton University sity to announce the 22nd annual Chicago Football Classic (CFC), which will take place on Saturday, September 14 at Soldier Field.

The Chicago Football Classic is a vital resource for the young people of our city in helping to plan their career and educational pursuits," said Mayor Lightfoot. "During their formative years, we must all come together to help young people discover their talents and interests whether in college or with a trade. It is important that youth and their parents attend this important day to experience and discover all the possibilities that the future holds."

For the first time, the college fair will include a career component for Chicago-area youth produced by the City Colleges of Chicago and the Chicago Public Schools. The college and career fair will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. This expansion will allow CFC to strengthen the enrichment of the various programs offered to students interested in going directly into the workforce after high school. Following the college and career fair will be a battle of the bands between various Chicago Public Schools' and suburban bands with the iconic football game between Howard University and Hampton University kicking off on the field at 3:30 p.m.

"The Chicago Football Classic is a time-honored tradition that celebrates excellence in sportsmanship and academics as students get a glimpse of college life and exposure to diverse postsecondary options," said Chicago Public Schools CEO Dr. Janice K. Jackson. "I'm thankful that so many partners come together to show our young people that sports and academics go hand-in-hand by helping students understand the diverse pathways and support available to help them reach their goals."

Last year, more than $1.5 million was awarded in scholarships to Chicago-area students that attended the college fair, where more than 30 historically black colleges and universities from across the country, City Colleges of Chicago and Chicago State University partici-

This is more than just a game. This three-day event brings awareness to HBCUs, exposes Chicago students to various aspects of the college experience and focuses on an uplifting theme that unites the community," said Chicago Football Classic Co-founder, Everett Rand. "We appreciate our ongoing partnership with the City of Chicago, and we look forward to exposing our youth to these educational opportunities that will help them become viable community leaders."

Former Mayor Rahm Emanuel And Governor Jb Pritzker Announced Expansion Of Universal Full-Day Pre-Kindergarten To 28 Communities This School Year

As citywide rollout of universal full-day pre-k for 4-year olds continues, DFSS will support additional investments in early childhood programs at community-based organizations

Former Mayor Rahm Emanuel, Governor JB Pritzker, Chicago Public Schools (CPS) and the Department of Family and Support Services (DFSS) in March of 2019 announced the expansion of universal full-day pre-kindergarten programs in 28 communities across Chicago. As part of the former Mayor's plan to provide universal pre-k by 2021, more than 100 new full-day classrooms will be added next school year.

"Every child in every neighborhood deserves a quality education, and that must begin in their critical earliest years," said former Mayor Emanuel. "We must remain committed to expanding early education programming to ensure every student, regardless of their family's resources, gets the great start they deserve. This expansion helps us to further close the achievement gap and build stronger communities across Chicago for generations to come."

"I've worked on early childhood development and education for decades because I believe to my core that every child should be given the best possible chance for a bright future," said Governor JB Pritzker. "With a $100 million increase in the Early Childhood Block Grant in my budget, we are proposing the largest ever one year increase in the program's history and more money for preschool than we've ever invested. This means Illinois can expand universal full-day, high-quality pre-K to 14,000 more children this year. Investing in early childhood development means taxpayers spend less and more people are contributing to our communities' health and prosperity. That's why pre-school can't be a luxury reserved only for some. It should be a right afforded to all."

"Universal pre-kindergarten is a powerful equalizer that ensures every student, in every neighborhood has access to a quality education that lays the foundation for future academic success," said CPS CEO Dr. Janice K. Jackson. "Access to early education has the power to transform lives and this initiative will benefit Chicago's families and Chicago's future."

As part of this expansion, the Department of Family and Support Services will add another $50 million to support community-based organizations providing early education programs through an upcoming RFP. This investment builds on investments of both DFSS and CPS to ensure that City-administered programs are high quality and effectively preparing children for success in their early years and beyond. In the first year of this ambitious plan, an additional 180 full-day CPS classrooms were added to serve the families most in need. Through the continued expansion of the programming, roughly 15,000 of Chicago's 4-year olds are anticipated to be served in the 2019-20 school year.

Access to universal full-day pre-kindergarten will roll out to additional communities each year, prioritizing communities with the most children in need. By the fall of 2021 pre-k will be universally accessible for all 4-year-olds in Chicago. Before the Mayor took office, less than 6,000 4-year-olds had access to pre-K; this plan will ensure that over 23,000 chil-

Studies consistently show that full-day preschool helps prepare children for kindergarten better than half-day programs, and also better meets the needs of working families. Full day programs typically have higher enrollment and attendance rates than half-day, and research continues to show that they have more impact on student outcomes. The former Mayor's aggressive plan to ensure that all children have access to this critical resource was developed in partnership with Action for Children, learning from local stakeholders and national experts to develop a robust model for Chicago.

All current early learning site locations can be found on the City's easy-to-use, interactive online portal at www.chicagoearlylearning.org.

First Human Case of West Nile Virus In Illinois for 2019

The Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH) is reporting the first human case of West Nile virus in Illinois for 2019. A Chicago resident in his 70s became ill in late July.

Last year, 74 counties in Illinois reported a West Nile virus positive mosquito batch, bird, horse and/or human case. For the 2018 season, IDPH reported 176 human cases (although human cases are underreported), including 17 deaths.

West Nile virus is transmitted through the bite of a Culex pipiens mosquito, commonly called a house mosquito, which has picked up the virus by feeding on an infected bird. Common symptoms include fever, nausea, headache and muscle aches. Symptoms may last from a few days to a few weeks. However, four out of five people infected with West Nile virus will not show any symptoms. In rare cases, severe illness including meningitis or encephalitis, or even death, can occur. People 60 years or older and individuals with weakened immune systems are at higher risk for severe illness from West Nile virus.

The best way to prevent West Nile virus or any other mosquito-borne illness is to reduce the number of mosquitoes around your home and to take personal precautions to avoid mosquito bites. Precautions include:

- Avoid being outdoors when mosquitoes are most active, especially between dusk and
- When outdoors, wear shoes and socks, long pants and a long-sleeved shirt and apply insect repellent that contains DEET, picaridin, oil of lemon eucalyptus or IR 3535, according to label instructions. Consult a physician before using repellents on infants.
- Make sure doors and windows have tight-fitting screens. Repair or replace screens that have tears or other openings. Try to keep doors and windows shut, especially at night.
- Eliminate all sources of standing water where mosquitoes can breed, including water in bird baths, ponds, flowerpots, wading pools, old tires, and any other containers.

Contact the North Shore Mosquito Abatement District (NSMAD) via email at nsmad@nsmad.com or call 847-446-9434 to report areas of stagnant water in roadside ditches, flooded yards and similar locations that may produce mosquitoes. Community members can also report stagnant water to Evanston's Health and Human Services Department by calling/texting 847-448-4311.

If you observe a sick or dying crow, blue jay, robin or other perching bird, please report it by calling/texting 847-448-4311. The Evanston Health and Human Services Department will then determine if the bird will be picked up for testing.

Additional information about West Nile virus can be found on the IDPH website at: http://www.dph.illinois.gov/

GOLDEN NUGGETS

"Little Sticks vs. A Big Stick"

You've all heard the message of "you can attract more of anything with "honey" rather than "vinegar"? Well, here is a thought which was shared with us by one of our readers. It is something (among many other things) that her Father would recite. It is paraphrased, so it may not be an exact quote, but is as meaningful as originally presented:

"A Bundle Of Little Sticks" is much more durable than "One Big Stick". You can lose a few "Little Sticks" from time to time, but the "Bundle" remains strong and continues to gather more "Little Sticks". When "One Big Stick" is lost, it has no impact at all. So remember, as a business, to value all the "Little" customers who support you. They will be there through thick and thin and will grow over time into a huge "Bundle"!!!
